The following critique of the above-mentioned Work appeared in the Repository of Arts:

* A mixed sensation of surprise and delight has attended our investigation of this volume; and if we were candidly to own all we thought on the occasion, we should add, that our metropolitan pride felt, in some degree, humbled at the idea of receiving from a distant County Town in the West, and from an Author hitherto unknown to us, a Work which may challenge the concentrated talent of the capital for competition in its kind."
